

February 2018 Newsletter

The Bulls Continue the Momentum

The bulls have taken January by storm. We continue to see record numbers in equities with the Dow Jones up 7.7%, the Nasdaq up 8.7% and the S&P up 7.5% year-to-date. Corporate earnings have been mostly positive, with two-thirds of the S&P 500 beating consensus estimates, and not even a government shutdown can stop this train. This is all good news for EZTracker portfolios but we must continue to keep our eye on the ball.

After much thought and analysis, we have concluded that the portfolios are well diversified and in the right place for the current environment. For the coming month, there are no changes in the Aggressive, Moderate, Conservative or Brokerage portfolios.

Shutdown? What shutdown?

We started last week with worries about a prolonged government shutdown. However, an agreement was reached keeping the government open until February 8th, with Congress “kicking the can” down the road for further discussion on the budget and immigration policies. Since the shutdown only lasted three days, the economic effects should be limited, but we need to review this again after February 8th in case of another shutdown. Our curiosity on the effects of past government shutdowns led us to study historical market returns after each shutdown since 1978. On average, the S&P gained 4.2% three months after a shutdown, and 17.3% one year after. During the 2013 shutdown which lasted 16 days, Standard & Poor’s stated that the shutdown had taken $24 billion out of the economy and shaved at least 0.6% off GDP growth.

Since 1970, there have been fourteen years where the S&P 500’s returns for the month of January exceeded 4.0%. In every instance, the S&P ended up with a positive return for the year with an average full-year return of 21%.

From a fundamental perspective, times are good: global economies are expanding and investing; unemployment rates are at post-crisis lows in the U.S., Japan, and Germany; and inflation remains low in most developed economies. From a technical perspective, many asset class valuations are at extreme levels (e.g. S&P price-to-EBITDA ratio currently stands at 11.0, the highest level since 1990; RSI-S&P Relative Strength Index is at 83.23, its highest since 1995-1996). Moreover, we have seen a significant crisis taking place once every three to five years, so by that measure we may be overdue for the next market event.

Years	Crisis
1987	Stock Market Crash
1990-1991	US Savings & Loans Crisis
1993-1995	Latin America
1997-1998	Asia Currency, Russia, LTCM
2000-2002	Internet/Tech Bubble, 9/11, Enron, Andersen
2007-2008	Global Financial Crisis
2010-2012	Eurozone Crisis

Current Market Valuation

The current market valuation may seem stretched in isolation, but based on the high levels of corporate profits, it does not appear to be unreasonable. The reduction in corporate tax rates plus the tax break on overseas asset repatriation are favorable events which are expected to lead to investment. The investment community is calling it a market “melt-up”, but are we due for a correction? As we have written in past newsletters, the EZTracker strategy is not to guess but to take what the market gives us, thoughtfully changing our model portfolios based not on projections, but on actual market performance and trends. It’s why we were largely out of the market in 2008. While market headwinds and market volatility may be increasing, the market has been resilient and the short-term direction remains up. We don’t see any evidence yet of a change in direction for the market.

Model Portfolio Changes Effective January 28, 2018

STEP 1: Update Your Current Portfolio

Log on to Fidelity NetBenefits at www.netbenefits.com/aa.

Current Subscribers:

1. Aggressive, Moderate and Conservative Portfolios: There are no changes for this month.
2. Brokerage Portfolio: There are no changes for this month.

New Subscribers: Rebalance your 401k using the chart below for the portfolio you want to follow. Rebalance directions on the next page.

Which Portfolio is Right for You: Selecting the right portfolio is an individual decision based on your comfort and ability to take risk. Only you can decide. Planning your retirement is more important than ever. Your portfolio choice will vary based on age, income, lifestyle, other investment assets and your tolerance for risk. We believe you can take control of your 401k and plan for the retirement you envision. For help in thinking about your ability and comfort with risk, check out the short risk quiz provided by our friends at Friedenthal Financial: Risk Tolerance Quiz. No personal information (name, email, phone, etc.) is required to take the quiz. Your privacy is protected.

After you complete the necessary "Exchange" or "Rebalance," copy your confirmation number.

STEP 2: Change Future Investments

Aggressive, Moderate & Conservative Portfolios: This is the money coming out of your paycheck each month and going into your 401k. Your future contributions should be set identical to your "Current Investments" in the chart above.

Brokerage Portfolio: Set Future Investments for 95% to the Brokerage Link and 5% to Emerging Markets Stk. Then continue and set 100% of the Brokerage Link contributions to Fidelity Cash Reserves (FDRXX)

- When adding one new position, add 50% of your cash balance to the proceeds of the fund you are selling.
- When adding two or more new positions, add 100% of your cash balance to the proceeds of the funds you are selling and split the dollar total equally in purchasing the new funds.

The EZTracker Brokerage Portfolio is a very aggressive approach for investors who want to invest in a wider range of market sectors. Managing this portfolio will require more time and greater comfort with risk than the other EZTracker portfolios. We suggest this portfolio for more experienced, knowledgeable investors. See the Monthly Fund Data on page 6 for a list of funds in this portfolio. If you are interested in using Fidelity's Self-Directed Brokerage Link, follow the instructions on the Fidelity website to set up your account or call the American representative at Fidelity (800-354-3412).

What We're Watching

- Davos 2018 – At the World Economic Forum's annual meeting, President Trump spoke about being in favor of free but fair trade, stating: "The United States will no longer turn a blind eye to unfair trade practices...We cannot have free and open trade if some countries exploit the system at the expense of others." Michael Corbat, Citigroup CEO said during a Davos panel "There is an ambivalence out there that's concerning. When the next turn comes-and it will come-it's likely to be more violent than it would otherwise be if we let some pressure off along the way." The International Monetary Fund raised its global growth forecast for 2018 and 2019 to 3.9%, expecting the global economy to continue to recover on the back of buoyant trade and investment, as well as recent US tax reforms.
- Treasury Yield Curve. The spread between the 2-year and the 10-year Treasury bond is currently 0.57% which is very low historically. Each of the past seven recessions has been preceded by an inverted yield curve (shorter-term bonds paying more than longer bonds). We will be watching this bearish indicator closely, because if the spread were to continue to fall below we will be sure to note it in future newsletters and take this into consideration when planning our portfolios.

- Inflation. Economists are seeing the potential for an increased level of inflation. The annual inflation rate has been below the Federal Reserve's 2% target for 5 ½ years but with improved economic growth and higher commodity prices, there is belief that overall prices could soon begin to rise. There is also the belief that wage growth will lead to higher inflation. While many companies are beginning to raise wages and offer bonuses, we look at some key data to measure the slack in the system: the unemployment rate held steady at 4.1% in December and the employment-to-population ratio among workers 25-54 is now 79%. In 2007, the last time hiring was so strong, the unemployment rate stood at 4.5%, and the employment-to-population ratio was 80%. Although current unemployment is below 2007's rate (an inflation indicator), it is offset by the lower current employment-to-population ratio, suggesting that the labor markets may not be as tight as implied by the unemployment rate alone, and there is more room to run.
- The Dollar. Despite President Trump's dollar-supportive comments at Davos this week, 2018 has seen a continued bearish trend for the dollar. A weak dollar has not only helped the performance of the international and emerging market funds in the EZTracker model portfolios, it has stimulated demand from overseas investment in the U.S. Markets. On average, the 10 highest-weighted stocks in the S&P 500 reported that overseas revenue accounted for 40% of their top line. Repatriation of overseas non-dollar money is assisted by a weak dollar. For example, 1 year ago, 1 GBP (British Pound) was worth 1.25 USD. Today, 1 GBP is worth 1.42 USD.
- GDP Growth. Q4 2017 GDP was released on Friday, January 26th and came at a reading of 2.6% annualized q/q growth. Personal consumption was extremely strong (3.8%), and weakness came in net exports (-1.13%) and inventories (-0.67%). Despite the lower than expected headline number, this was a standout report led by the consumer showing the economy had strong momentum going into 2018. We will keep a close watch on GDP growth in Q1 and Q2 to see if this trend continues. Healthy GDP growth usually translates into strong corporate earnings, which bodes well for the stock market.
- Consumer/Business Confidence: Consumer Confidence declined in December after reaching a 17-year high in November, which was attributed to Americans feeling slightly less optimistic about future job prospects. We will be looking at the next reading very closely (January 30th) to see if this bearish indicator continues or was a temporary blip. We are also looking at the NFIB Small Business Optimism Index which declined as well in December after reaching a 25-year high the previous month. Small businesses are responsible for a majority of new job creation so their health is often a leading market indicator, signifying changes in the stock market, especially small caps. Next release is February 14th.

Historical Performance

Any investment strategy should be measured one way: Results over time. Not one-week, one-month, not even one-year. While past performance is not a guarantee of future performance, our record has been excellent in delivering long-term returns. As with any long-term investing strategy, you should not expect dramatic short-term results to offset past losses.
