3% Yields Stuns Bulls

For the first three weeks in April, U.S. stocks rose as geopolitical tensions faded and investors turned to corporate earnings for guidance on future economic growth. Last week, however, the equity markets got spooked when we saw rising yields on the 10-year treasury reach 3.0% for the first time in four years. That and inflationary concerns accompanying higher commodity prices led to five days of stock declines in a row. After some late stabilization, the S&P 500 stands up for the month at +1.1% MTD and slightly below flat at -0.138% YTD.

All of the EZTracker model portfolios were up on the month and they continue to outpace both the Morningstar Benchmarks and the S&P 500. As a result there are no changes to the EZTracker model portfolios or brokerage portfolios for the coming month.

There is a lot going on in this turbulent market that will determine the direction of the EZTracker portfolios for the rest of the year. Below is a summary of the key issues that we are following:

Corporate Earnings

In general, Q1 earnings for S&P 500 companies have been spectacular, with Q1 profit gains over 22%, "easily the best quarter in at least seven years" according to the Sevens Report. Moreover, over 79% of reporting companies have beaten Wall Street estimates. But the markets have not been impressed. Market pros worry that most of the earnings power already has been priced into the market and are focused on growth, looking ahead and wondering how corporate earnings can top themselves next year. Simply put, although strong earnings are important, future growth ultimately is what will drive stocks and multiples higher.

Financials: Bank earnings so far have been decent, with earnings beats by Citi, JPM, BofA, Goldman Sachs, American Express, and many others. Markets have not rewarded these positive reports however, possibly due to the perceived quality of the outperformance (ie tax benefits). With the recent rise in yields, however, the financial sector (XLF) has outperformed other sectors, gaining over 2.0% in April. Financials benefit from higher yields from the spread between what they pay savers and what they earn on loans and investments.

Industrials: Despite decent Q1 earnings performance, Industrials lagged toward the end of the month after Caterpillar's (CAT) management announced that the construction equipment giant did not expect to see further profit growth for the rest of the year. This doused cold water not only on CAT but also on the entire industrials and materials sector.

Technology: Toward the end of April, Technology earnings results materially outperformed with sector EPS up 22%. This was led by Facebook (FB, 63% EPS increase) and Microsoft (MSFT, beat estimates by 12%). Ultimately such earnings strength didn't translate into share price growth as the sector is down 1.85% for the month. Technology, however, still remains the 2nd strongest YTD of the 11 sectors tracked by Morningstar.

Consumer Discretionary: The Consumer Discretionary sector (XLY) has been one of the strongest performers over the last month, posting 2.96% growth during April. Sources of its momentum include Amazon (AMZN, Q1 earnings that blew past expectations by over 150%) and Netflix (NFLX, posting a 60% increase in EPS). The sector benefits from improving employment and a healthy housing market (as well as lower perceived personal income taxes) which lead to higher consumer spending on purchases outside of core consumer staples.

EZTracker's Brokerage Portfolio has exposure to three of the above-mentioned sectors, Financials, Technology and Consumer Discretionary.

Bottom Line:

After the market fluctuations and fickleness of the past few months, and in the midst of an excellent earnings environment, U.S. stocks have ended up virtually flat, making runs at both highs and lows but failing to break out in either direction. Accompanying this market volatility, we've had more than a few calls and emails from you with the question: "What should I do?" Keep in mind that investing for your retirement is a long-term proposition. If increased volatility makes you nervous, take a look at how much risk you're taking with your 401k and other investments. Follow the model portfolio that best fits your comfort and ability to take risk. Only you can decide how much risk is right for you.

What We're Watching

Economic Data

The latest batch of U.S. economic data points to a rosy picture. March new home sales rebounded to 694,000, a 4% increase over February. U.S. Consumer Confidence index continued to climb – to 128.7 in April from 127.0 in March – reaching near an 18-year high. Americans were more optimistic about their own finances and they think jobs are easy to find. “Overall, confidence levels remain strong and suggest that the economy will continue expanding at a solid pace in the months ahead,” said Lynn Franco, Director of Economic Indicators at Conference Board. Friday’s GDP Report had Q1 GDP up 2.3% vs a consensus estimate of 2.0% - the first time that a first quarter GDP beat economist expectations since 2008.

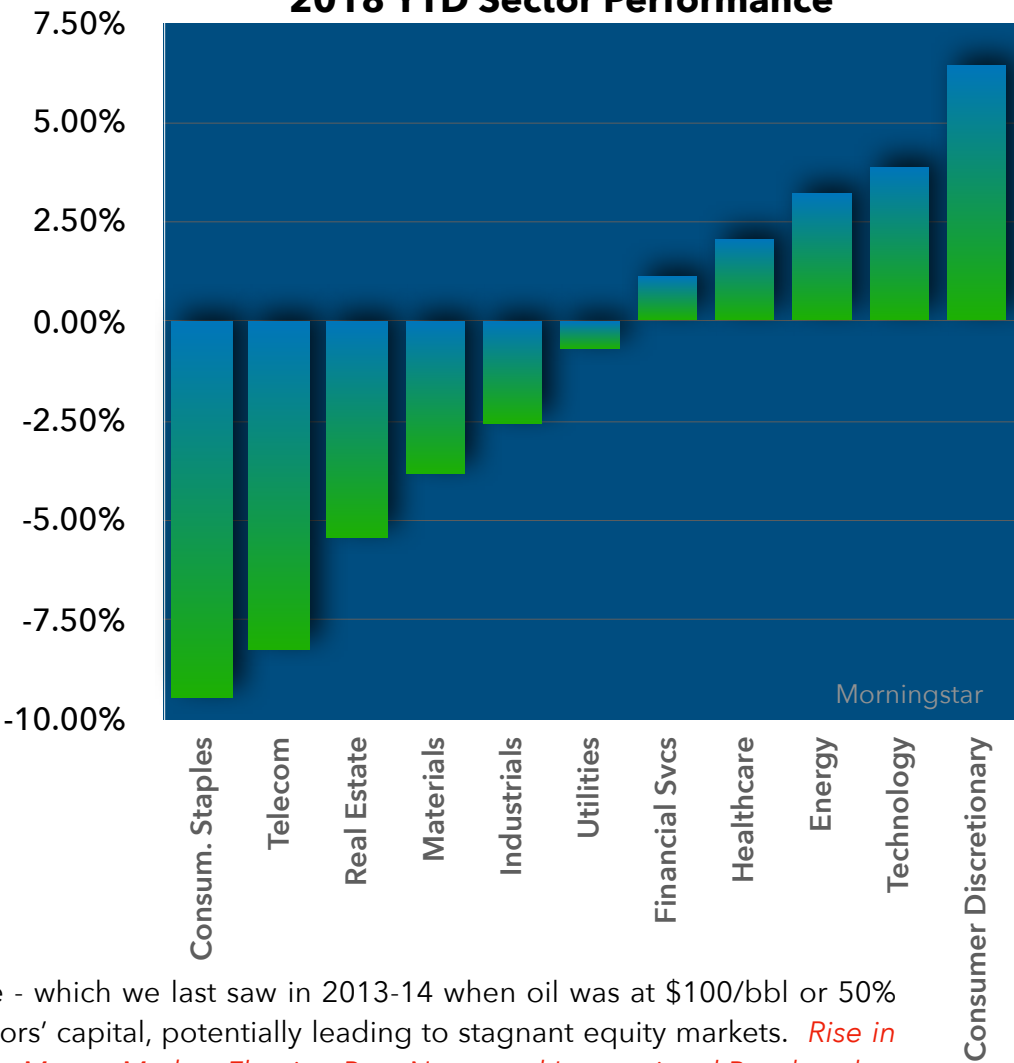

Sector Analysis

Year-to-date, US equity sector performance continues to be mixed with material weakness continuing across all value and core sectors (small-cap, mid-cap, and large-cap), while all growth sectors (small-, mid-, and large-cap) continue to be in the black. In many EZTracker model portfolios, we are weighted toward growth sectors to take advantage of this trend.

YTD Index Performance: Returns (%)

	VALUE	BLEND	GROWTH
LARGE CAP	-2.44%	-2.99%	7.28%
MID CAP	0.18%	-1.48%	3.28%
SMALL CAP	-3.44%	-0.88%	3.84%

2018 YTD Sector Performance

Fixed Income and Other Markets

Yield Curve and Rates: 10-year yields have risen to the 3.00% range - which we last saw in 2013-14 when oil was at $100/bbl or 50% more than today. At this yield, bonds compete with stocks for investors’ capital, potentially leading to stagnant equity markets. Rise in yields and the fall in prices is why EZTracker portfolios use Stable Value, Money Market, Floating Rate Notes and International Bonds rather than other bond options in the 401k. Although the spread between 2-yr Treasuries and 10-yr Treasuries dipped earlier this month to 0.43% (a bearish indicator), it has recovered and is now back over 0.50%. A flatter yield curve signals expectations of slower long-term growth. An inversion (shorter term bonds’ yield > longer term bonds) is considered to be a predictor of recession.

Currencies: The US Dollar is trading at its highest level since January. The main catalyst for US Dollar strength continues to be the rise in US Treasury yields. Put simply, higher yields on U.S. bonds, mutual funds and CD’s make them more attractive for foreign investors. These investors need dollars to buy U.S. investments and must trade their currencies to get ahold of them.

Oil: Earlier in April, oil prices had been bolstered by the sense in the market that Trump will pull the U.S. out of a 2015 international accord to curb Iran’s nuclear program, which would likely lead to sanctions and frustrate the region’s oil output, reducing global supply. Oil prices then fell recently after Trump reversed course and signaled an interest in a new deal on Iran. West Texas Intermediate futures trading over $68.

The EZTracker Brokerage Portfolio is a very aggressive approach for investors who want to invest in a wider range of market sectors. Managing this portfolio will require more time and greater comfort with risk than the other EZTracker portfolios. We suggest this portfolio for more experienced, knowledgeable investors. See the Monthly Fund Data in the appendix for a list of funds in this portfolio. If you are interested in using Fidelity's Self-Directed Brokerage Link, follow the instructions on the Fidelity website to set up your account or call the American representative at Fidelity (800-354-3412).

STEP 2: Update Future Investment Elections

Aggressive, Trend, Moderate & Conservative Portfolios: This is the money coming out of your paycheck each month and going into your 401k. Your future contributions should be set identical to your Current Investments in the above EZTracker Model Portfolio chart above.

Brokerage Portfolio: Set Future Investments for 95% to the Brokerage Link and 5% to Emerging Markets Stk. Then continue and set 100% of the Brokerage Link contributions to Fidelity Cash Reserves (FDRXX)

Our suggested approach:

- When adding one new position, add 50% of your cash balance to the proceeds of the fund you are selling.
- When adding two or more new positions, add 100% of your cash balance to the proceeds of the funds you are selling and split the dollar total equally in purchasing the new funds.

Morningstar Target Risk Index

The Morningstar Target Risk Index series serve as benchmarks to help with investment selections. They cover a global set of stocks, bonds and commodities. While not investable indices, they represent challenging benchmarks for long-term investing plans such as the EZTracker model portfolios.

Historical Performance

Any investment strategy should be measured one way: Results over time. Not one-week, one-month, not even one-year. While past performance is not a guarantee of future performance, our record has been excellent in delivering long-term returns. As with any long-term investing strategy, you should not expect dramatic short-term results to offset past losses.
